

Sculptural Objects

Thank you, for purchasing a Cory Porterfield original. To ensure the quality of your piece remains for years to come...there are a several things you should know. I have a few simple do and do not ideas for you to review:

DO: Place your piece near a light source. Remember that if the light is too hot, the piece may crack. Therefore beware of candles.

Clean your piece with a damp lint free cloth. Glass cleaner can be used, but not on sand blasted areas.

If your piece has a sandblasted exterior surface, you may re-apply a new oil free coating. I suggest, either 'Rain X' or 'Sanishield'. Both are used to repel water spots and fingerprints. Apply three times and you are set for many more years of enjoyment.

Brag to friends and family about the unique hand made piece you own.

Let it enlighten your world.

DO NOT: Spray cleaner directly on your piece. The liquid can seep between the plate glass layers and leave water spots.

Immerse the object in water. The water may also seep between the layers.

Use an oil or glass cleaner on sand blasted surfaces.

Put in dishwasher or subject the sculpture to extreme hot or cold. If you

Use a candle; the flame must be a minimum of 1-1 1/2 inches away. Again use caution and remember ... heat = cracking.

Put it in an unlit area.

Break it.

It is glass, so ensure it is in a safe place. This does not include your closet.

Please follow these steps and you will ensure the quality of your piece and my art. Art, that I am certain will stimulate many of your senses. It is a treasure in an ocean of art, a star in your space and sign of your great taste.

Once again, thank you.
